

Rights and permissions

You will find information here concerning the copyright ownership status and requirements for reuse of AVS-owned journal material. For authors publishing in an AVS journal, pertinent information concerning the transfer of copyright as well as the procedure for obtaining permission for material reproduced from outside sources is also available in the Information for Authors section of each publication. Please refer to AIP Publishing's Copyright Frequently Asked Questions \(FAQ\) for help with additional copyright-related matters.

CHORUS

Through participation in the CHORUS initiative, AVS will make publicly available the Accepted Manuscript version of an article in response to government or funder requirements 12 months after publication. Unless otherwise noted on the article, the Accepted Manuscript is licensed under the terms of the AVS Transfer of Copyright Agreement. In addition to the reuse rights outlined on this page, usage rights for AVS online content are also subject to the Scitation Terms and Conditions (<http://scitation.aip.org/terms>) and compliance with all applicable copyright laws.

Reuse of AVS material

Single copies of individual articles may be made for private use or research. Authorization is given to copy articles beyond the free use permitted under Sections 107 and 108 of the U.S. Copyright Law, provided that the copying fee of $30.00 per copy per article is paid to the Copyright Clearance Center, 222 Rosewood Drive, Danvers, MA 01923, USA, <http://www.copyright.com>. For classroom use fees, contact CCC's Academic Permission Service. (Note: You will need to refer to the publication by its ISSN as listed above.)

Authorization does not extend to systematic or multiple reproduction, to copying for promotional purposes, to electronic storage or distribution, or to republication in any form. In all such cases, specific written permission from AVS must be obtained.

Permission is granted to quote from an AVS publication with the customary acknowledgment of the source. Republication of an article or portions thereof (e.g., excerpts of greater than 400 words, figures, tables, etc.) in original form or in translation, as well as other types of reuse (such as use in course packs or electronic reserves) require formal permission from AVS and may be subject to fees. Although it is not a legal requirement for permission, as a courtesy, an author of the original article should be informed of any request for republication/reuse.

Obtaining permissions and payments of fees

Using RightsLink®: Through AIP Publishing, AVS has partnered with the Copyright Clearance Center to offer RightsLink®, a convenient online service that streamlines the permissions process. RightsLink® allows users to instantly obtain permissions and pay any related fees for reuse of copyrighted material directly from AVS's website. Once licensed, the material may be reused legally, according to the terms and conditions set forth in each unique license agreement.

To use the service, access the article you wish to license on Scitation and simply click on the Permissions/Reprints link in the abstract. If you have questions about RightsLink®, click on the link as described, and then click the "Help" button located in the top right-hand corner of the RightsLink® page.

Without using RightsLink®: It is preferable to send requests for permission for republication or other reuse of AVS journal or conference proceedings material to rights@aip.org. Response time can vary but usually runs between three and five working days.

If you must send your request by mail, please address it to:
